

Business Continuity Summary Disclosure Statement

Events such as disasters, power outages, cybersecurity events, and war can significantly disrupt business operations. CrowdStreet has developed a Business Continuity Plan that describes how we will respond to events that significantly disrupt our business.

We plan to quickly recover and resume business operations after a significant business disruption and respond by safeguarding our employees and property, making a financial and operational assessment, protecting books and records, and enabling Users to access the Website and Services. Our objective is to resume business operations within one business day of a disruption. However, the scope and severity of the event will impact our ability to achieve this objective.

Our business continuity plan addresses matters such as connectivity, data backup and recovery, all mission critical systems, financial and operational assessments, alternative communications with Users, employees, and regulators, alternate physical location of employees, critical vendor and bank impacts, regulatory reporting, and assuring Users prompt access to any funds or securities in our custody if we are unable to continue our business.

CrowdStreet benefits from a widely distributed workforce with cloud-based systems hosted in many cases by large national providers with multiple failover systems and redundancies. As a result, CrowdStreet and its major vendors expect to be able to manage a local or regional business disruption without extensive disruption to CrowdStreet's operations by transferring operations outside the affected area. However, no operation is immune to business interruption, particularly in the event of a cybersecurity attack CrowdStreet or a major vendor or during a national or global crisis. Moreover, many of the real estate projects available through CrowdStreet, and the companies that manage those real estate projects and transactions, are inherently local or regional and subject to more significant disruption during even a localized event.

In the event of a business disruption, CrowdStreet intends to provide Users with updates and information on its Website at crowdstreet.com. CrowdStreet also may contact Users directly.

If you have questions about our business continuity planning, you can contact us at legal@crowdstreet.com.

Please note, our Business Continuity Plan is subject to change at any time, in CrowdStreet's sole discretion.
